When I moved to Cumbrae, a principal reason was the fact that it is so different from the mainland – so unique and safe. I am therefore at a loss as to why it would make any sense to suddenly align this island and its neighbour Arran with the mainland administratively. The differences between these communities is massive – why not accept this? Do numbers really matter more than people?

Eurostat have requested we consider merging the Highlands & Islands with North Eastern Scotland to create a new area that's closer to the recommended population thresholds. The Scottish Government plan to request that these areas should be allowed an exemption under Article 3 (5) of the NUTS Regulations, i.e. because of particular geographical, socio-economic, historical, cultural or environmental circumstances, especially in the islands and the outermost regions.

Please provide any evidence in favour of or against an exemption under Article 3 (5) of the NUTS Regulations for Highlands & Islands and North Eastern Scotland NUTS 2 areas?
