This would enable greater flexibility and choice of residential care for many children, young people and their families - particularly for those who may find having carers at home an intrusion on family life. It could lead to the creation of a greater number of specialist services to meet specific needs, where demand in their home authority may be insufficient to have a residential resource to accommodate this. However, safeguards should be put in place to ensure that those residential establishments financed via a direct payment meet appropriate standards of care and that the direct payment is subject to regular (possibly six monthly) review.

that are more appropriate for statutory guidance rather than Regulations?

We believe that carers need to be supported when direct payments are applied for. Children's Hospice Association Scotland is aware of a number of families who have experienced difficulties with direct payments in relation to their responsibilities as employers - for example, in cases where relationships between parents and the carers they employ break down. In these scenarios, finding an alternative carer can be a long, onerous and daunting process - leading to some families reaching crisis point. Supervision, provision and levels of training available for both carers and personal assistants is also patchy across Scotland. Support, advice and guidance for carers in this respect should be better supported.

Question 5: What are your views on restricting access to direct payments in relation to the provision of long-term residential care?

This question was raised during the initial consultations on a draft SDS Bill. The Scottish Government would like to invite detailed views before making a final decision prior to the laying of the Regulations before the Scottish Parliament. Should the restriction be removed from the final regulations, thereby allowing direct payments for residential care? Or should it be retained? Please provide reasons as to your support or opposition to requiring authorities to provide direct payments for residential care.

Comments

Question 6: The draft Regulations do not specify circumstances where the direct payment option should be unavailable for care and support to children/families. Should there be specific restrictions on choice of support in relation to children/families support (i.e. support provided under Section 22 of the Children (Scotland) Act 1995) and should these restrictions apply to the direct payment only, or to other options as well?
