Consultation response

Question 1: We would like to know in what context you are responding. Please choose one of the following:

I am responding as:

a) an individual who experiences chronic pain ☐
b) a family member or carer of someone who experiences chronic pain ☒
c) a health professional ☐
d) an organisation representing people who experience chronic pain ☐
e) other stakeholder (please tell us in the comments box below) ☐

My father experienced Chronic pain

Question 2: Please choose your preferred option (Chapter 2 provides details).

Option 1 – a centre of excellence in a single location ☒
Option 2 – a service delivered by local chronic pain clinicians (supported by other clinical advisors in another part of the country) ☐
Option 3 – a service delivered in different locations (by a team of chronic pain specialists – an outreach or roving service) ☐

Please tell us why this is your preferred option in the comments box below. The factors listed in Chapter 2 of the consultation paper may help you.

I think it is the only viable option. One centre would be best for training staff and I don’t know why you should worry about distance this time when people have been sent as far away as Bath? Any spot in Scotland is bound to be nearer.

Question 3: Are there any of the options you disagree with? (If No, move straight to Question 4.)

If yes, please tell us which one(s) in the comments box, and why?

Option 2 and 3 would possibly lessen funding and effectiveness and option 3 would surely be very difficult on funding a staff team and does not seem sensible.
Question 4: If you have other ideas that have not been covered, please tell us about these in the comments box below. You may want to include the advantages and disadvantages of each.

Question 5: What do you think the barriers are to accessing a residential pain management service? (For example, distance away from family, work or family commitments, upfront travel costs.)

Please list as many as you wish in the comments box below and include any others that are important to you.

Depends on the person and their circumstances. Obviously distance to the service but as long as the place is accessible this should not be a problem and if there is a centre in Scotland it saves Scottish sufferers having to travel all the way to Bath. Upfront costs will be much less travelling to a centre in Scotland compared to going all the way to Bath!

Question 6: Please choose from the list below which aspects of residential pain management services should be included in a Scottish service.

(choose as many as apply)

- A chronic pain assessment
- Supported one to one sessions to teach coping skills
- Group sessions
- Residential accommodation
- Opportunity for immediate carer/support provider to accompany patient
- Peer support
- Tailored exercise programme
- Medication assessment
- Other (please tell us in the comments box below)

Question 7: Irrespective of the final service model selected, should access to the current service provided in Bath (or elsewhere in the UK) be retained for occasional use?

Yes ☐ No ☒ Don't Know ☐
Question 8: Have you previously attended, or supported someone attending a residential service outside Scotland?

Yes  ☐ (please answer Question 9)

No  ☒ (please move straight to Question 10)

Question 9: If you have attended, or supported someone attending a residential service outside Scotland, please tell us about any advantages and disadvantages of the experience.

Question 11: If you wish to add any further comments on issues raised in the consultation paper or current chronic pain services in Scotland, please use the comments box below.

In Scotland, patients suffering chronic pain still seem to be at the bottom of the NHS pile. Your day clinics appear to be very short of staff and a residential service would surely be welcome by staff who would be able to use the best of their skills for several weeks.
