Comments

19. If you answered, 'no' to Question 17, please give reasons for your answer.

I am not aware of any evidence that e-cigarette vapour causes any 'second-hand' harm. I also believe the argument that e-cigarette use 'normalises' the smoking of conventional cigarettes and should therefore be banned in public places to be specious. As Professor John Britton and Dr Ilze Bogdanovica wrote in their May 2014 Public Health England report on Electronic Cigarettes, "... although similar in appearance, even cigalike products are easily distinguishable, both in appearance and smell, from tobacco cigarettes. Therefore, use of electronic cigarettes in smoke free places is more likely to lead to normalisation of nicotine devices than to smoking, and hence potential benefit as a support to existing well smoke-free policies."

In a presentation at the 2014 E-Cigarette Summit, Ian Gray – Chief Policy Officer at the Chartered Institute of Environmental Health – and Hazel Cheeseman – Director of Policy at Action on Smoking and Health – said that there was no evidence of e-cigarettes undermining smokefree legislation, nor any particular reason to believe that they will.

My view is that it is up to individual proprietors / business owners whether they wish to allow the use of e-cigarettes on their premises.

20. Are you aware of any evidence, relevant to the use of e-cigarettes in enclosed spaces, that you think the Scottish Government should consider?

As a party to the World Health Organization's Framework Convention on Tobacco Control (FCTC), Scotland has an obligation to protect the development of public health policy from the vested interests of the tobacco industry. To meet this obligation, we ask all respondents to disclose whether they have any direct or indirect links to, or receive funding from, the tobacco industry. We will still carefully consider all consultation responses from the tobacco industry and from those with links to the tobacco industry and include them in the published summary of consultation responses.
