Hi [REDACTED],

Very quick favour to ask.

I am drafting some suggested remarks for Ms Hyslop at the ceremony in the Kavanagh Resource Centre tomorrow.

Is there anyone in particular she should thank (Minister Humphreys aside)?

Best,

Thanks [REDACTED],

Would it be useful to include a line from Ms Hyslop in your press release?

If so, [REDACTED] in copy is our comms lead in this area and would be happy to work on it with your comms folk.

Best wishes,

Hi [REDACTED],

I wanted to make sure that you were fully in the picture on Ms Hyslop's wider programme and likely arrival time at the Institute on Friday.

She now has a bilateral with Foreign Minister Simon Coveney scheduled from 11.30 – 12.30.

Looking at your proposed timings, this doesn't impact on the actual speaking slot, but may squeeze out space for any pre conditions with your board. If so, I am sorry we can't get there any earlier.

Please do let me know if this poses any problems at this stage.

Lastly, do you yet have a sense or indication of pick up and likely attendance?

Best wishes,

Just a final word of confirmation, if it is still needed, that Ms Hyslop is very much looking to speaking at the Institute next Friday.

At the moment, the subject matter of her speech will be a horizon tour of Brexit as seen from the Scottish government perspective, and its implications for the Scottish/Irish relationship relations on these islands. I hope that meets expectations.

Very best wishes,

[REDACTED]

I wanted to make you aware of a small gathering I am organising with our Cabinet secretary Fiona Hyslop, MSP. The invitation below has gone to a small group of contacts – either Scots in senior positions in Ireland, or people engaged in strengthening the Scottish/Irish relationship.

I would be delighted were you also able to attend. I hope this will be a very informal precursor to the bigger St Andrew's day reception, and a chance to have a frank exchange with the Cabinet Secretary – with whom the BICC has a long standing relationship, and an organisation I know she always looks forward to meeting.

Let me know if you can come along.

Subject: Invitation to a Meeting with Scottish Government Minister for External Affairs

Importance: High

Dear friend,

As you may be aware, I will be hosting a special event on behalf of the Scottish Government in Ireland on 30th November in the Minerva Suite at Dublin's RDS to mark Scotland's national day. This will be the biggest St Andrew's celebration we have held since the Scottish Government opened its office in Dublin in early 2016. I hope it will continue to grow in the years to come and be one of the points in the calendar at which Scots in Ireland come together. You will, by now, have received an invitation to this event. I am looking forward to a great evening, at which I hope to meet as many of you as possible.

At the risk of over reaching our requests on your time, I also wanted to take this opportunity to invite you to a smaller gathering earlier on in the evening of the 30th of November. The purpose would be to meet, greet and get to know Scottish Government Cabinet Secretary for Culture, Tourism and External Affairs, Fiona Hyslop MSP, before we all move on to enjoy the wider networking and merriment of the St Andrew's event. I hope this can also be an opportunity for a frank exchange with the Cabinet Secretary on what the current context feels like from the perception of those of you living and working in Ireland and engaged in this bilateral relationship.

I don't propose a formal agenda for this, hoping that we can keep the conversation informal and as frank and free ranging as possible. In terms of structure, after meeting everyone able to come along, I will ask the Cabinet Secretary to say a few words about current Scottish Government thinking on Brexit, and more broadly how we see the relationship with Ireland. I will then ask her to take questions and engage in an open discussion.

I hope this is something you will be interested in joining me for. If so, I would ask that you come to the Scottish Government offices in the British Embassy for 5.45pm, with a view to starting at 6pm sharp. That way we can get a good 50 minutes discussion before all heading next door to the RDS together for the beginning of our St Andrew's day celebrations at 7pm.

Please RSVP to this email by Friday 24th November, making sure you copy my colleague [REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED],

I wondered if you had any thoughts on my message below?

I am talking to Ms Hyslop at 1330 today, so I thought I'd check.

Also – I was checking my notes. Did we speculate over whether there might be a potential announcement from the bilateral? Possibly around the cooperation with Scotland on Culture Ireland's 2018 focus? Fuzzy memory. I must be getting old.

Subject: Agenda for Discussions on 30 November in Louth/Monaghan

Morning [REDACTED]

Thanks to you [REDACTED]for taking the time to see me yesterday.

It really does look like an excellent programme is taking shape for the 30th November in Louth/Monaghan. The prospect of holding our bilateral discussions in Agnes Burns' cottage is just great! Let me know what in due course what the arrangements for the meeting are as soon as [REDACTED] have been able to talk to your contacts in Louth.

I promised you a quick note to get the ball rolling with an initial suggestion of topics we could use to shape an agenda for a Ministerial and officials discussion in the morning, before we go to the Kavanagh event in Iniskeen. From our perspective it would be useful to discuss the following:

- Scottish elements of Culture Ireland's 2018 focus on the UK. What can we do to support? What can we work on together, and on what themes?
- Look ahead to Celtic Connections, how can we make the most of this opportunity – potential to send very positive messages about the Scottish / Irish relationship today.
- linked to Celtic, how do we protect and nurture grassroots culture (inc. safeguarding music venues) – a topic under discussion in BIC CI work stream – but can we share lessons and work in partnership in this area?
- SG is working on a new Culture Strategy – we are interested in the development of your framework, and what lessons we can learn.
- Related to the above on lesson learning – fascinated by the success of Culture Night, and would like to learn more about how this has been made into a nation-wide event? How has it helped increase participation/reach new audiences? How have you quantified success?
- Diversity in the creative industries – also a future BIC CI work-stream- but perhaps worth touching on also.

Ms Hyslop will also want to highlight the Culture Summit 2018 in Edinburgh, at which we will hope to see strong Irish participation.

Lastly, it might be worth thinking about the opportunities that a visit to Scotland by the Taoiseach in early 2018 might present to highlight the strength of our cultural collaboration?

These for starters. I look forward to any suggestions you also have for the discussion.

I am copying my colleague [REDACTED]– who will accompany Ms Hyslop on this programme.

Speak soon.

Hi [REDACTED],

[REDACTED] is tied up in programme detail for the three ministerial visits we have in the next ten days. So if I may, I'll answer this.

The shape, format and timing of this engagement have shifted slightly as Ms Hyslop's programme has evolved. We are still keen to host a meeting with her that brings together Causeway members, potential members and key members of the Scottish community in Ireland (many of whom will be very useful contacts for Causeway). So where are we now in terms of arrangements:

The intent is that we will host the meeting in the RDS immediately ahead of the evening event – we have a smaller room adjoining the venue for the reception that can be used for this purpose. We would ask those invited to the engagement with Ms Hyslop to arrive at the RDS at 6pm sharp, to meet Ms Hyslop, and have a pre reception discussion on a range of topics – Brexit, Scottish/Irish relations, the future of the relationship and the role that we can all play in making it as successful as possible (we will refine the structure and format closer to the time).

The consolidated list I have is below. Those names below your list are senior Scots based in Ireland who have told me directly that they want to be more engaged in supporting the bilateral relationship, and whom have also indicated they would be interested in working with Causeway.

The whole list feels too long if everyone accepts, particularly when we consider the Causeway Board. Could you indicate which of those from your list below are priority targets for the Causeway Steering Group in Ireland?

This hopefully ties together various previous strands of correspondence in one place.

One important point of clarification. The evening event is not a dinner. It is a reception.

We will make sure you. [REDACTED] have invitations for the evening event.

On the earlier session with the Minister. I think it would be wise to get ahead and start inviting those people who are on the list for the evening event. I wouldn't want to have any more than 15-20 at that session. That way we keep the discussion discrete, manageable, and allow everyone that is there to feel they have been engaged. We can accommodate that boardroom style in our main meeting room.

I suggest a one hour session from 1630 - 1700. Guests to arrive sharp.

In terms of format:

1630 - 1640 : Open with tea and coffee and an informal chance to meet and say hello to the minister, introduce each other.

1640 - 1650 : Welcome and introduction [REDACTED]

1650 - 1700 : Minister to say a few words about the current context, Brexit, Scottish government's view, approach, priorities

1700 - 1730 : open discussion (opportunity for guests to offer their perspective to Minister, ask any questions etc..)

In terms of wording for an invitation:

[REDACTED], Head of the Scottish Government Office in Ireland & Causeway: Scottish/Irish Business Exchange are pleased to invite you to meet Scottish Government Minister for Culture, Tourism and External Affairs, Fiona Hyslop, MSP, for a private and informal discussion on Scottish / Irish business links, the current context on these islands, and future risks/opportunities

Please let me know if you have any suggested amendments to this.

Would you be able to send to Caroline a consolidated invitation list for the afternoon event? We can send invitations to those who are also invited to the evening event, and hold back the others.

There are one or two engaged academics I would like to invite to this as well.

Anything else at this stage?

Best wishes,

Hi [REDACTED],

I just wanted to drop you an email to confirm that Fiona Hyslop will visit Dublin on 30th November – 1st December.

As is often the case with Ministerial visits, there are several moving parts yet to settle for her wider programme – particularly a couple of Ministerial bilaterals we are trying to nail down with Simon Coveney and Heather Humphries.

However, she has confirmed that she would like to do an event with the IIEA on this visit – your time permitting.

At this stage, can I ask you to confirm that this would still work for the Institute, what time you would have in mind for a session, and what reasonable lead in you would need to get the event organised and a decent audience attracted?

Let's aim to talk in the next week or two about substance, speech content etc..

Very best wishes to you and [REDACTED],

It was really good to meet you last week. We should try not to leave it so long until the next one – let's fix a time between now and end November for a quick chat.

I wanted to drop you a follow up email to confirm that Scottish Government Cabinet Secretary for External Affairs, Fiona Hyslop, will visit Dublin 30th November – 1st December.
