STATEMENT FROM DEREK MACKAY

Derek Mackay said:

"I take full responsibility for my actions. I have behaved foolishly and I am truly sorry.

"I apologise unreservedly to the individual involved and his family.

"I spoke last night with the First Minister and tendered my resignation with immediate effect.

"Serving in government has been a huge privilege and I am sorry to have let colleagues and supporters down."

Accepting Mr Mackay's resignation, First Minister Nicola Sturgeon said:

"Derek has taken full responsibility for his actions and apologises unreservedly for them to the individual involved and to those he has let down. He has submitted his resignation as a government minister which I have accepted.

"Derek has made a significant contribution to government, however he recognises that his behaviour has failed to meet the standards required.

"The Minister for Public Finance, Kate Forbes, will present today's Scottish Government budget setting out our actions to support the economy, back our people and public services and tackle the climate crisis, and that remains my government's focus."

Subject: Derek Mackay £12,000 Payout

Message Body:

I like many others find it is disgusting and wrong that this payment should be made to the former finance minister.

If this is a contractual obligation then it needs to be changed.

Ministers who resign voluntarily and /or are dismissed because of misconduct should not qualify for this payment.

Can I ask if you agree with this and if so will you amend the employment rules to reflect this.

Your personal response is eagerly awaited urgently.

Thanks. [Redacted]

Dear First Minister,

I wish to know if this predatory person will receive any financial benefits from leaving his job?

What did you know about any of his behaviour in the SNP?

This person has the capacity to bring your government down as you by may will be seen as inactive as to his previous behaviour.

Yours Respectfully

Dear First Minister

Could you please confirm if Derek MacKay MSP will be expelled from the SNP party after his resignation from his Scottish government post as Finance Secretary follow revelations that he was sending text messages to a 16 year old boy? Your statement this morning says that "Mr MacKay recognises that his behaviour has failed to meet the standards required" so surely he can't continue to represent the constituency of Renfrewshire North and West as an MSP in Hollyrood or be a member of the SNP.

Your sincerely

FOA Nicola Sturgeon

Having read the report around Derek Mackay, any comment from you except this behaviour is vile, abhorrent, and must be completely and utterly condemned is the wrong one

I have no political view here, we are talking about children being groomed, that is it

Please please do the right thing and strongly condemn this behaviour

I'm more than happy to take a phone call if it would help understand how devastating this sort of action can be

Dear First Minister,

The finance minister's behaviour is deplorable and possibly criminal. He only offered his resignation as finance minister because he was compelled to by events and this is only the first step in removing him from all government business. I ask you now, will he resign as an MSP as he cannot represent the constituency or will you sack him and force a by - election.

He is unfit for any job in government, and your position and action on this matter will impact on you personally, as it is a test of leadership over personal friendships.

I await your response with interest.

Yours Respectfully

Dear Ms Sturgeon,

I am writing to express my sympathy towards your former Finance Minister Derek Mackay in relation to the recent press publication.

I believe that nobody deserves that degree of humiliation in the public eye, In my opinion, it was a deliberate plan to destroy him both as a politician and as a human being due to his protected characteristic. The press needs to stop demonising and poisoning individuals, including politicians.

I believe that a second thought should be considered as a fair and democratic practice. I am homosexual by myself and I have lived and faced with all the ignorance and prejudice associated with 'being different'.

I hope my little note will make a change for the better, a kinder society and a more rigorous regulated press and media.

Kindest regards,

Subject: Derek Mackay resignation

Good morning,

I am a big fan of Nicola Sturgeon and wish she could move south of the border to show us English how good politicians can be.

However, I feel that I must say something about the issue of Derek Mackay's resignation.

I am not at all comfortable that Derek Mackay was made to resign. He is openly gay, separated from his wife and the boy by legal definition actually a young man of 16.

In 1968 my [Redacted]. Nobody, wrote to the papers, nobody called the police.

It seems to me that there is considerable bias here. If an older man gets together with a young lady – he gets a pat on the back.

However, because it is a man approaching a younger man, suddenly it must be wrong, immoral, disgusting.

There is no scandal here, Derek Mackay has committed no offence and he should be re-instated.

Did the young man request no further contact? Did he attempt to block Derek Mackay's messages? It seems to me very simple, these two guys had been chatting, mum found out and stirred it up. Derek Mackay is by no means unattractive and probably the feelings were mutual.

There is no such law, nor is it against morality for an older guy to date a younger one, even if the younger one is only sixteen. The pair of them are perfectly able to even get married if they want to. Mother's outrage, while appealing to the newspapers has nothing to do with it. The young man can do whatever he wants, he is sixteen.

Derek Mackay has lost his job and his good name has been splashed over the front pages for doing nothing wrong. He isn't the first guy that got his turned by an attractive young man and he certainly will not be the last.

Regards
