in our goverment stand up for moral Christ values, and push this hate crime bill.

As a Scott with voting power I am calling on my Scottish Parliament to stop this madness.

Yours in hope

Dear Nicola,

Re: Your new "Hate" Law.

It can never be racist to call a spade a spade, (or say that Adolf had a silly moustache), as that is but what free speech is all about!

Likewise, you cannot force people to like each other, as that is a matter of mutual consent. (After all, no-one in their right mind would have forced Charles and Diana to stay together, even for the sake of their children), so why should we wrongly be content to accept people into our midst, who openly and wilfully do not want to mix with us, (because, to them, drinking alcohol is forbidden, or cutting your hair is wrong and that eating the meat of the sacred cow, is but an abomination — except, of course, that the Hindu Indian has never allowed an Untouchable to play cricket for their country — so on your knee Mr Modi!)

We also fought two world wars, in order to stop people with blonde hair blue eyes and a fair skin from invading our country, but are required, upon the full extent of the law, to now accept "without let or hindrance", anyone in the world, who care to be here, by using any method of entry, which they consider fit and proper! (sic)

And, by all necessary means your new "hate" law is about to ram this message down every native (sic) Britain's throat, with brass knobs on!

May the force, therefore, be with you.

Yours sincerely,

Reasons for Not Providing Information

An exemption under section s.38(1)(b) FOISA applies to some of the information you have requested. The reason this exemption applies is that some of the information contains personal details on a third party or a Scottish Government staff member, under the grade of deputy director, who expect that their personal details be removed.

This exemption is not subject to the ‘public interest test’, so we are not required to consider if the public interest in disclosing the information outweighs the public interest in applying the exemption.
