Hi [redacted]

Would 14.00 be a convenient time on Monday 30th March?

I'll send you some information on the recent third party research that Hetas commissioned and an update on the new independent emissions and efficiency label, clearSkies, that is being launched by the industry before the call; as it might be helpful to discuss these.

Dear [redacted]

Hope you are well.

Just thinking ahead to our meeting on Monday 30th March at St Andrew's House and whether it would be prudent to have a contingency in place.

The SIA is very keen for the meeting to go ahead, if not in person then perhaps online or by conference call.

Can you advise if you have the facility for a multi-telephone line conference call or access to online software that would facilitate this?

I am looking into options too and will advise if I can find a suitable platform that would work for us all.

Kind regards

Hello [redacted]

We are currently working on a draft revised air quality strategy, taking into account the review recommendations, and we expect to be issuing a public consultation on our proposals starting in early summer.

It would be interesting to hear some more about the points you mention below, and also take the opportunity to provide you with more detail about the review.

Some available dates for me in March are 13th, 16th, 20th, 23rd, 25th, 27th and 30th.

Hello [redacted], I hope you are well.

It's been a while since we were last in touch so I wanted to catch up to see what stage things are up to with the Cleaner Air for Scotland strategy?

It's been a busy few months for the SIA and we have a number of things we are keen to update you on including a new independent emissions and efficiency performance label for stoves and fireplaces that will be launching shortly.

We would also like to discuss and share with you the details of a comprehensive 3rd party review of the existing scientific research, literature and methodologies surrounding domestic combustion and its contribution to UK air pollution.

I wondered if you might have some available dates for us to meet with you to cover these things? Perhaps if you could send some suggested dates, I will coordinate diaries at this end and we can get something in place.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Hello [redacted]

Thank you for making contact. The independent review of our Cleaner Air for Scotland strategy, which the SIA contributed to, has now been completed. The next stage in the process is to seek views on the review's conclusions and recommendations, which I hope will commence later this month and conclude before the end of the year.

We will then begin work on a revised and updated strategy in the first part of 2020, and I hope we will continue to work with the SIA during this process. I will keep you informed of developments.

Subject: Air quality and the Stove Industry Alliance

Hello [redacted],
[redacted] of Building Standards gave me your contact details.
I wanted to introduce myself and the Stove Industry Alliance (SIA).
The SIA is the trade association for wood burning stoves in the UK and I am [redacted].

The SIA is in regular contact with Defra and is consulting on the Defra Clean Air Strategy.
We have also responded to the Air Quality in Scotland Consultation.

As I am sure you know Ecodesign is the European wide legalisation designed to improve the energy efficiency and reduce the emissions from heating appliances. This is due to come into effect in the UK in 2022but the SIA has decided to release stoves that will meet the Ecodesign regulations ahead of that date. The Ecodesign Ready stoves were launched in February, 2017 with the support of Defra. Defra have mentioned them in their Clean Air Strategy. I have attached a copy of the launch brochure.

I would like to open a dialogue with yourself and keep you informed of developments, further reducing the emissions from Ecodesign Ready stoves. If you felt it would be useful I would be pleased to meet you in Scotland. (I regularly meet with Building Standards).

Warm regards,

[redacted]
