The answer to your question is:

The annual budget attributed to the NACWG over the past three years has been £250,000 (two hundred and fifty thousand pounds), plus two full time Scottish Government staff. A large majority of the spend is staff and service related, with procured creative services and payment to the NACWG Co-Chairs. A comprehensive breakdown of spend was shared in a previous FOI request Documentation relating to the costs associated with NACWG - a Freedom of Information request to Scottish Government - WhatDoTheyKnow therefore below outlines what was not covered in this previous release.

Under section 25(1) of FOISA, we do not have to give you information which is already reasonably accessible to you. If, however, you do not have internet access to obtain this information from the website listed, then please contact me again and I will send you a paper copy.
