Dear Mr Yousaf

I am sorely disappointed in how you are wasting tax payers money to promote your independence referendum, one that was lost not so long ago!

I also cannot understand how to date the SNP have been allowed to get away with so many failures during its time in office?

Can you please explain to me WHY you feel it's just to use our taxes on furthering your campaign when you fail to grasp the basics? We in Scotland need a party which supports its people, the very people who are struggling day to day through whatever causes they have to endure. I am fed up to the back teeth of empty promises, lack of clarity & the cloak & dagger behaviour you wilfully display.

We need a government who will give us what is needed, a better, fairer & a clearer picture for a Scotland that we can all be proud of. So please can you just stop spouting your rubbish, get a grip, be honest & stop spending our taxes on waste-less, useless campaigns that not all of Scotland wants nor needs!

From a very fed up, disillusioned pensioner who sees no future because of what you've failed to deliver to as a government.

Yours sincerely

Subject: Independence

Dear Mr Hepburn ,

I am not very politically minded, but I am getting rather fed up with you and your party saying you have a mandate for independence. I accept you have with the greens, a majority of pro independence seats in the Scottish parliament.

Unfortunately a second independence vote would be based on total number of votes cast not seats. At the last Scottish election, the total votes cast for pro independence parties was 48.9%, -1.1% which is NOT a mandate for independence although I accept it was a good result. Therefore the mandate you claim is actually not correct and is probably even less now

Regards
