Subject: Scottish energy standards - cSAP & cSBEM
Date: 19 August 2021 17:01:00

Good afternoon

The consultation on the next set of energy standards of the Scottish building regulations commenced on the 26 July and can be accessed at <https://consult.gov.scot/local-government-and-communities/building-regulations-energy-standards-review/>.

To support the consultation and enable designers and developers assess what the changes mean for building projects, updated consultation versions of SAP and SBEM have now been released. The calculation tools can be accessed at: <https://scotland.isap.org.uk>
<https://www.uk-ncm.org.uk/page.jsp?id=31>

To provide additional time for users to assess the impact of the proposed options set out in the consultation, and feed this back through their consultation responses, we are extending the consultation period by two weeks which means it will now close on the 29 October. We will update the consultation webpage shortly to reflect this change.

In September we will host a number of online question and answer sessions about the consultation proposals. Further information on these events will be issued next week.

In addition, Transport Scotland are running a number of webinars for the Electric Vehicle section of the consultation which will provide opportunities for people to come together to hear about those proposals and to discuss areas of interest. If you, or any of your colleagues, would be interested in attending any of these events, please click on the relevant link below to register.
