Executive Summary

Overview

This is the tenth two-monthly report on the Coronavirus Acts, in which the Scottish Government sets out the status and operation of the legislation necessary to respond to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. This report is the latest in our regular reporting on coronavirus-related legislation to ensure that the Scottish Parliament has oversight of the legislation, allowing it to hold the Scottish Ministers to account for their use of the powers available to them, and is important as part of our commitment to transparency.

Continued importance of the Coronavirus Acts

COVID-19 is first and foremost a public health crisis, and the measures to combat it have been necessary to save lives and livelihoods. The measures introduced by the Scottish Coronavirus Acts were largely intended to ensure that public services could continue to discharge their duties effectively whilst adhering to public health restrictions in an effort to limit the spread of the virus.

As this report is published, we are moving into a winter which we expect to be difficult. At the same time there is light at the end of the tunnel. The COVID Recovery Strategy sets out our vision for recovery and the actions we will take to create a better, fairer and greener Scotland that will guide us through the period ahead, and the recently published COVID-19 Strategic Framework sets out what we're doing in many different ways to help keep us safe and alleviate the broader harms of the crisis.

As we move forward in our handling of COVID-19, the measures we take to protect the public will be reviewed to ensure they are appropriate, and we are committed to doing this transparently. Parts of the UK Coronavirus Act are due to expire in March 2022, as are provisions of both Scottish Acts, and we are reviewing what we will need to do to ensure we can continue to protect public health and manage the impacts of COVID-19 on our public services and justice system. We continue to be committed to only retaining legislative provisions where they are necessary and proportionate.

Ministers' review of the tenth report – statement by Ministers on necessity and status of provisions

This tenth coronavirus report covers the period from 1 October to 30 November 2021. Scottish Ministers have undertaken a review of the provisions of Part 1 of the Coronavirus (Scotland) Act 2020 (“the first Scottish Act”) and the Coronavirus (Scotland) (No.2) Act 2020 (“the second Scottish Act”), and the provisions of the Coronavirus Act 2020 (“the UK Act”) for which the Scottish Parliament gave legislative consent, in order to consider whether the provisions remain necessary. Ministers are satisfied that the status of those provisions at the end of this reporting period is appropriate, and will continue to keep this under review going forward as we hopefully continue to move towards the resolution of COVID-19.

Scottish Ministers have also undertaken a review of the Scottish Statutory Instruments (SSIs) to which section 14 of the second Scottish Act applies. Ministers are satisfied that the status of those SSIs at the end of the reporting period is appropriate

Next steps

I welcome this opportunity to continue to update the Scottish Parliament on the operation of the Coronavirus Acts and continue to stand ready to engage with the Parliament in its scrutiny of this tenth report.

John Swinney MSP

Deputy First Minister and Cabinet Secretary for Covid Recovery

7. Reporting on coronavirus-related Scottish Statutory Instruments

1. Introduction

- 1.1. As required by section 15 of the first Scottish Act (Coronavirus (Scotland) Act 2020), and section 12 of the second Scottish Act (Coronavirus (Scotland) (No.2) Act 2020), this report includes information on the operation of the provisions of Part 1 of each of those Acts. It also includes an update on the status of those provisions, and confirmation that Scottish Ministers are satisfied that the status of those provisions is appropriate.
- 1.2. The report also covers the reporting requirements relating to Scottish Statutory Instruments (SSIs) made by Scottish Ministers where the main purpose relates to coronavirus, excluding those made by Scottish Ministers under the first or second Scottish Act or UK Act (Coronavirus Act 2020).
- 1.3. The UK Act does not set out an equivalent statutory requirement for reporting by the Scottish Government or other Devolved Administrations. However, as with the approach taken to reports in the previous parliamentary session, the Scottish Government has included information on the provisions in the UK Act for which the Scottish Parliament gave legislative consent.

2. Scottish Government approach to reporting

- 2.1. In continuing to review and develop the Government's approach to reporting, it has been recognised that some measures in the legislation may have greater impact than others on individuals or groups (people with one or more of the protected characteristics listed in the Equality Act 2010), or more generally on equality and human rights. In assessing the equality impact of the measures the Scottish Government has considered the measures in light of the requirements of the Public Sector Equality Duty (PSED) as set out in section 149 of the Equality Act 2010, the need to eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation, advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and those who do not, and foster good relations between people who share a protected characteristic and those who do not. Public authorities are required to regularly publish equality information under the Scottish specific duties (including a new set of equality outcomes, pay gap information and equal pay statements). The Scottish Government last reported in March 2021¹.
- 2.2. We have in this reporting period continued to reflect on the views and publications of key stakeholders with an interest in the areas of human rights, children's rights and equality impacts. The Scottish Government consideration of views includes those of the British Institute of Human Rights, the Scottish Human Rights Commission and the Children and Young People's Commissioner Scotland.
- 2.3. The approach to reporting on these impacts will be kept under review in line with legislation and in response to the views of the Scottish Parliament.

3. UK Government reporting and engagement

- 3.1. The UK Act has a sunset provision (section 89) by which it expires two years after the day it was passed, on 25 March 2022, subject to certain exceptions which are set out in the legislation.
- 3.2. Review of the status, operation and continuing necessity of devolved provisions in the UK Act is part of the Scottish Government's two-monthly reporting to the Scottish Parliament, which provides the Parliament with an opportunity to scrutinise the judgements which have been made in the operation, and assessment of the continued necessity of those provisions.
- 3.3. The Scottish Government continues to engage and work with the UK Government and the other Devolved Administrations on the implementation and operation of the UK Act and to help ensure respective reporting arrangements operate successfully and appropriately alongside each other, to support robust and effective scrutiny of the legislation.

4. Further reporting

4.1 Coronavirus-related SSIs

Section 14 of the second Scottish Act requires Scottish Ministers to report on SSIs made by Scottish Ministers where the main purpose relates to coronavirus. This provision does not apply to SSIs made by Scottish Ministers under the first or second Scottish Acts or the UK Act. Information on SSIs, to which section 14 of the second Scottish Act applies, is included at section 8 of this report. In this report information has been included on a total of 129 SSIs – 9 of which are new to this reporting period – which are in scope for reporting under section 14 of the second Scottish Act.

4.2 Information about domestic abuse

Section 15A of the first Scottish Act and section 13 of the second Scottish Act require Scottish Ministers to take account of any information about the nature and number of incidents of domestic abuse occurring during the reporting period to which the review relates, given to them, or published by the Scottish Police Authority, or the Chief Constable of the Police Service of Scotland. Further, Scottish Ministers are required to explain in the report on that review, prepared under section 15 of the first Scottish Act and section 12 of the second Scottish Act, how the information was taken into account. The legislation does not require this information to be taken into account in the review of the powers under the UK Act, however we have made a decision to do so in order to ensure consistency in our approach and ensure the fullest possible consideration is given to this information.

In terms of our requirements under the legislation, consideration has been given to the provisions in the Scottish and UK Acts where domestic abuse may be deemed relevant. Where information on the nature and number of incidents of domestic abuse may be deemed of relevance to a provision, this has been considered as part of the assessment of whether the provision remains necessary.

The information used to support the review was published on 28 October 2021, as part of the Scottish Government Justice Analytical Services data report on how the coronavirus pandemic has affected the justice system. The data from Police Scotland highlights that looking cumulatively across April to September 2021, domestic abuse incidents were 6% lower than the equivalent period in 2020 and 1% higher than the equivalent period in 2019 (31,689 incidents recorded in April – September 2021, 34,106 incidents in April – September 2020, and 31,689 incidents in April – September 2019). The proportion of April 2021 to September 2021 incidents that include the recording of at least one crime or offence was 42.3%, which is lower than for the equivalent period in 2020-21 of 43.4%.

Separate figures on crimes recorded under the Domestic Abuse (Scotland) Act 2018 are available from the Recorded Crime in Scotland monthly Official Statistics. There were 149 such crimes recorded by the police in September 2021, this is 39% higher than September 2020 (107 crimes) but 2% lower than September 2019 (152 crimes).

For the purposes of this reporting period, the information on the nature and number of incidents of domestic abuse has not impacted on the outcome of the assessment of whether the provisions remain necessary.

The Scottish Government remains committed to tackling domestic abuse and to coincide with the 16 Days of Activism to End Violence Against Women from 25 November to 10 December we are re-running our domestic abuse public awareness campaign from 2019. We are investing significant levels of funding in front line services and over the past 18 months we have invested an additional £10m to allow rapid re-design of services and address backlogs, supporting organisations such as Scottish Women's Aid and Rape Crisis Scotland. In addition, we have created a new Delivering Equally Safe Fund (£19 million per annum) and have recently confirmed allocations to 121 projects from 112 organisations working to provide services and prevent gender-based violence.

4.3 Additional reporting requirements

Schedule 4, paragraph 12 of the second Scottish Act requires the Scottish Ministers to lay a report before Parliament on their responses to requests for information under the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002. The ninth 'Coronavirus (Scotland) (No.2) Act 2020: report on the Scottish Ministers' responses to requests for information under the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002'² was laid in Parliament and published on 10 December 2021.

Section 6(1) of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 requires Scottish Ministers to include in this report:

² Coronavirus \(Scotland\) \(No.2\) Act 2020: ninth report on the Scottish Ministers' responses to requests for information under the Freedom of Information \(Scotland\) Act 2002

- The measures in place to protect tenants from eviction and any plans for further measures the Scottish Ministers propose to put in place to protect tenants from eviction,
- The number of notices of proceedings issued to tenants in social housing as a result of rent arrears in the period,
- The total value of rent arrears in the social housing sector accumulated during the period, and
- The number of eviction orders because of rent arrears issued by the First-tier Tribunal for Scotland during the period

4.4 This reporting is covered in section 6.1.1.

5 Status update

- 5.1. Table One below provides detail on the status and operation of the provisions under Part 1 of the first and second Scottish Acts, and the provisions of the UK Act for which the Scottish Parliament gave legislative consent.
- 5.2. This includes information on the provisions which have been expired or suspended.
- 5.3. Where it is indicated in Table One that provisions have been expired as they are ‘spent’ provisions, this may mean that the provisions make amendments to other legislation and therefore the provisions themselves no longer need to remain in force. The operation of section 15(2) (d) of the Interpretation and Legislative Reform (Scotland) Act 2010 means that the expiry of these provisions does not affect the amendments they have made to other legislation. The effect of the expiry is simply to remove the ‘spent’ provisions in each of the Scottish Acts. Other provisions have been expired as ‘spent’ as they no longer have any practical effect as their purpose has now been served.
- 5.4. As outlined above, this approach to reporting will ensure that the Parliament is given as much information as is available across all of the provisions in the relevant legislation, but with a particular emphasis on those provisions which have been identified as being likely to have the most significant impacts or interest. Where supplementary information has been provided, this is indicated within the ‘operation of the provision in the reporting period’ column within Table One, and further information is provided at section six. For descriptions of the provisions, please refer to the ninth report.

Expired All remaining provisions expired as part of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 at the end of 30 September 2021.
5.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 1 – Courts and tribunals: conduct of business by electronic means	In operation These provisions continue to support key elements of the Justice Recovery programme enabling Court and tribunal business to continue and to address the backlog built up due to the pandemic, for example minimising the number of paper documents in circulation and the number of people required to attend buildings.	Commenced and still in force No change to status since last reporting period
6.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 2 - Fiscal fines	In operation The provision enables a wider range of summary cases to be dealt with by fiscal fine and, thereby, mitigate the impact of coronavirus on the justice system. In the period since 7 April 2020 up until 31 October 2021, 6,687 people or approximately 22% of individuals who received a first marking action for a Direct Measure were offered a fiscal fine. 7.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 3 - Cases beginning with an appearance from custody	In operation The provision, which enables custody proceedings to be heard in any sheriff court in Scotland by a sheriff of any sheriffdom, no matter where the alleged offence took place, creates the necessary flexibility to ensure the continued safe and effective operation of custody courts during the coronavirus outbreak and allows the court to deal with guilty pleas and move them out of the court system, and in doing so, minimise the number of cases that have to be transferred to local court. For as long as court business is affected by coronavirus and/or public health measures remain in place these provisions will continue to be required, which allow for a smaller number of police centralised custody suites and enable custody courts to be conducted in a way that minimises unnecessary travel and congregation of people.	Commenced and still in force No change to status since last reporting period

9.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 5 - Evidence	Not in operation	Expired As part of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021, this provision expired at the end of 30 September 2021 subject to saving provision in the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 (Evidence) (Saving Provision) Regulations 2021.
10.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 6 - Community orders	In operation Unpaid work and other activity requirements continue to be extended to at least 12 months. The power to vary community payback orders remains available but has not been used since the Community Order (Coronavirus) Scotland Regulations 2021 came into force in March. Other provisions are now expired.	Commenced and still in force Paragraphs 13 and 15. The application of the regulation making power in paragraph 15 was restricted as part of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 at the end of 30 September 2021. The regulation making power can no longer be used in relation to drug treatment and testing orders made under s.227U of the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1995. Expired As part of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 paragraphs 12 and 14 expired at the end of 30 September 2021.
11.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 7 - Parole Board	In operation The provisions at paragraph 17 require to remain in place to allow the Chairperson of the Parole Board to delegate his functions should he become incapacitated for Covid or other reasons.	Commenced – majority still in force Provisions at paragraphs 18(2), 18(4) and 18(5) were expired on 14 June 2021 as they were considered no longer necessary.

			The remaining provisions at paragraph 18 are still required to allow the entire proceedings of a parole hearing to be held by live link.
12.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 8 - Release of prisoners	Not in operation The provisions have not been used in the reporting period. See section 6.1.3 for additional information.	Commenced and still in force No change to status since last reporting period
13.	First Scottish Act	Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 9 - Legal Aid	In operation Many providers of legal aid services continue to experience disruption to cash flow and the provisions will support access to payment prior to a case concluding. As we emerge from the public health crisis, maintaining a legal aid sector will be crucial to the recovery of the justice system and the resolution of problems associated with the pandemic and resulting economic shock. To support this position these provisions require to remain in place.	Commenced and still in force No change to status since last reporting period
14.	First Scottish Act	Section 6 and schedule 5 – Alcohol licensing and section 7 and schedule 6, Part 1 – Licensing other than alcohol licensing	In operation Licensing authorities continue to make use of the provisions. For example, holding virtual licence hearings/meetings to progress day to day licensing business due to the coronavirus outbreak and physical distancing requirements. The provisions require to remain in place to enable the licensing regime to function effectively and to ensure, as far as	Commenced – majority still in force Section 2(1) of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 provides that one licensing provision contained in the Coronavirus (Scotland) Act 2020 expired at the end of 30 September 2021. Namely, Paragraph 4 of schedule 5, sub-paragraph (5)(d) (alcohol licensing etc.) which allows for Licensing Board meetings to be held in private for a reason relating to coronavirus.

			practicable, people do not lose licenses through no fault of their own.	All other provisions remain in force.
15.	First Scottish Act	Section 7 and schedule 6, Part 2 – Freedom of Information (FOI)	In operation Section 7, schedule 6, part 2, paragraph 6 – The provisions of paragraph 6 allowing the Commissioner to take account of the impact of coronavirus expired at the end of the previous reporting period. However, provisions of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 continue the provision in effect in relation to any request made under FOISA on or before 30 September 2021. In operation Section 7, schedule 6, part 2, paragraph 7.	Commenced and still in force Paragraph 7 Expired Paragraph 6
16.	First Scottish Act	Section 7 and schedule 6, Part 3 - Duties in respect of reports and other documents	In operation These are generic provisions that apply to reporting and publication requirements across the public sector. The suspension of physical publication requirements is in use, since it is not certain that physical access to documents can be provided in all circumstances while the potential for re-imposition of restrictions remains and while there is a continuing encouragement for people to work from home where possible and appropriate. The power to postpone reporting should only be used as necessary to enable public authorities to focus on the coronavirus	Commenced and still in force No change to status since last reporting period response. Given the aim of reducing undue burdens, it would be disproportionate to request authorities to report on the individual uses of these powers, however the provision continues to be necessary for the reasons set out above.

17.	First Scottish Act	Section 7 and schedule 6, Part 4 - Local Authority meetings	In operation This provision provides local authorities with the flexibility to only provide hard copies or extracts of a document requested by a member of the public in their offices if it is reasonably practicable to do so and is now no longer compulsory.	Commenced and still in force Paragraphs 11(b), 12 and 14 Expired Paragraph 13 expired as part of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021 at the end of 30 September 2021.
18.	First Scottish Act	Section 7 and schedule 6, and Part 5 – Duties under the Public Finance and Accountability (Scotland) Act 2000	Not in operation	Expired As part of the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021, these provisions expired at the end of 30 September 2021.
19.	First Scottish Act	Section 8 and schedule 7, paragraphs 1(b) and 5 – Social security	Not in operation	Expired Paragraphs 1(a), 2,3 and 4 are expired ⁸ as they are spent provisions. Paragraphs 1(b) and 5 expired at the end of 30 September 2021 by the Coronavirus (Extension and Expiry) (Scotland) Act 2021.

First Scottish Act	Section 8 and schedule 7, paragraphs 6 and 7 – Irritancy clauses in commercial leases: non-payment of rent or other sums due	In operation As a preventative measure it is not possible to quantify how effective it has been. However, anecdotally it has been working well in conjunction with the Code of Practice for the Commercial Property Sector, which has also been extended to at least 22 March 2022, to prevent evictions for non-payment of rent. Rather landlords and tenants are continuing to arrive at mutually beneficial agreements on lease. Restructuring, Rental deferments, holidays and reductions. There is accordingly little evidence of evictions taking place although this has always been possible under the Scottish Act.	Commenced and still in force No change to status since last reporting period

First Scottish Act	Section 8 and schedule 7, paragraphs 8 to 10 – Duration of planning permission	In operation It would be disproportionate to request authorities or applicants to report on the individual uses of these powers. Whilst some restrictions remain in place, this means that further delays can be expected and it may take some time to deal with the backlog of developments. The Scottish Government will continue to liaise with stakeholders as part of the ongoing review of the operation and continued necessity of these provisions.	Commenced and still in force The emergency and extended periods, as amended by The Town and Country Planning (Miscellaneous Temporary Modifications) (Coronavirus) (Scotland) Regulations 2021 under powers conferred by these provisions mean that the "emergency period" will expire on 31st March 2022 with the "extended period" expiring on 30 September 2022. Otherwise no change to status since last reporting period.

22.	First Scottish Act	Section 8 and schedule 7, paragraphs 11 to 19 – Land Registration	In operation The portal for the submission of digital applications continues to operate successfully. 6. Supplementary information

First Scottish Act

6.1.1 Section 2 and schedule 1 – Eviction from dwelling houses

Reporting on the status of eviction provisions and measures in place to protect tenants from eviction and any plans for further measures the Scottish Ministers propose to put in place to protect tenants from eviction

- 6.1.1.1. Section 6(1) of the 2021 Act requires the Scottish Ministers to report on: the number of notices of proceedings issued to tenants in social housing as a result of rent arrears; the value of rent arrears in social housing; and the number of evictions orders issued by the First-tier Tribunal for Scotland because of rent arrears.
- 6.1.1.2. Paragraph 1(2) of schedule 1 makes provision for all private rented sector eviction cases going before the First-tier Tribunal (Housing and Property Chamber) to be considered on a discretionary basis. As of 31 October 2021, the First-tier Tribunal (Housing and Property Chamber) confirmed that it had received 737 applications that fall within the scope of the emergency provisions.
- 6.1.1.3. An analysis of the decisions made by the First-tier Tribunal (Housing and Property Chamber) shows that between 8 July 2020 and 25 October 2021 there have been a total of 209 eviction orders issued relating to private residential tenancies (PRTs) where rent arrears were cited.
- 6.1.1.4. Coronavirus dashboard information published by the Scottish Housing Regulator²³ shows that the total value of rent arrears in the social sector increased substantially from £150.0m to £165.0m in the four months between the end of April 2020 and the end of August 2020, an increase of £15.0m (10.0%). The value of arrears subsequently stabilised across most months since then, and then decreased in March 2021 to stand at £160.7m as at end March 2021. Following this the value of arrears dropped further by £3.3m (2.0%) to £157.5m as at end June 2021, but has since risen again to £166.2m based on latest available figures to end September 2021.
- 6.1.1.5. The dashboard information also shows that the number of notices of proceedings for recovery of possession issued by social landlords for rent arrears increased each month from June 2020, rising from 246 in June 2020 up to 1,514 in November 2020. After this the numbers decreased to 699 in January 2021, 875 in February 2021 and 934 in March 2021, following which there have been 3,641 notices issued in the quarter April to June 2021 (an average level of 1,214 per month) and then 4,417 notices issues in the latest quarter July to September 2021 (an average level of 1,473 per month). The number of court actions initiated for eviction increased from 30 in June 2020 up to 102 in September 2020, after which the number fell to 63 in March 2021.

Following this there have been 296 actions initiated in the quarter April to June 2021 (an average of 99 per month), and then 469 actions (an average of 156 per month) in the latest quarter July to September 2021, levels which are significantly lower when compared to average monthly figures for previous years.

- 6.1.1.6. Paragraph 8 of schedule 1 provides a power for Scottish Ministers, exercisable by the negative procedure, to modify the length of any period of notice specified to apply during the relevant period. In exercising this power, the Scottish Ministers cannot specify a notice period which is longer than six months. In light of the substantial impact anti-social behaviour can have on individuals and communities, Ministers exercised these powers to ensure that where landlords have clear evidence of anti-social or criminal behaviour, which cannot be resolved by other means, then they are able to take the necessary action to end the tenancy. It should be noted that Ministers can exercise their power under paragraph 8 at any time during the lifetime of the specific provisions in the emergency legislation.
- 6.1.1.7. The provisions which extend notice periods to - in effect - halt any eviction action under the existing legislation including the Private Housing \(Tenancies\) \(Scotland\) Act 2016 and the Housing \(Scotland\) Act 2001, for up to six months, have been used in the reporting period. This applies to both the social and private rented housing sectors in order to ensure that the position is absolutely clear for all landlords in Scotland.
- 6.1.1.8. To further support renters facing eviction during the ongoing pandemic, regulations banning the enforcement of eviction orders in the private and social rented sectors came into force on 11 December 2020. The evictions ban was subsequently added to the Local Levels Regulations from 22 January 2021 and applied to areas subject to Levels 3 or 4 restrictions. On 5 March 2021, the Local levels Regulations (including the evictions ban in levels 3 and 4) were extended until 30 September 2021. The Local Levels Regulations (including the evictions ban) were revoked on 9 August 2021 by the Health Protection (Coronavirus) (Requirements) (Scotland) Regulations 2021. Accordingly, there is no current ban on the enforcement of evictions in Scotland.
- 6.1.1.9. Social and private landlords have also reaffirmed their commitment to supporting tenants facing difficulties during the pandemic - <https://www.gov.scot/news/protecting-tenants-during-pandemic/>.
- 6.1.1.10. Additional reporting requirements under section 6(1) of the 2021 Act require details of the measures in place to protect tenants from eviction and any plans for further measures. In relation to the additional measures in place to protect tenants, the Scottish Government has funded councils with £10 million to provide grants to tenants who have fallen behind on their rent as a result of the pandemic and are at risk of eviction. This is in addition to the £10 million loan funding made available to tenants and the £5 million loan funding made available to landlords.

6.1.1.11. Additional background on the factors to determine the use and continued necessity of the provisions can be found in the Ninth Report.

6.1.2 Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 4 – Extension of time limits

6.1.2.1. At this time, a significant backlog of criminal cases continues to exist and the Scottish Government considers the extended time limits continue to be necessary. To tackle backlogs built up while necessary public health restrictions have been in place, the Scottish Government has committed to investing £50 million this year to the Justice Recover, Renew and Transform (RRT) programme. This will drive further reform, including greater use of digital tools and improved support for victims and witnesses.

6.1.2.2. A number of measures have been put in place to mitigate the impact on the COVID-19 pandemic – with most civil work being dealt with online or virtually and the establishment of innovations such as remote jury centres in cinemas for the most serious criminal trials. Using the additional funding, the Scottish Courts and Tribunals Service (SCTS) announced additional sixteen court capacity, which forms a significant part of our Recovery programme and which has been made possible by continued collaboration across the whole justice system. The High Court will sit in Airdrie, Dundee, Inverness and Stirling, with the Sheriff Solemn courts sitting in Dumfries and Dunfermline. All trial courts will be linked to remote jury centres. The ten additional Sheriff Summary courts will be provided at varying locations across Scotland, based on the level of cases and safe court capacity, with at least one court in each of the six sheriffdoms in Scotland.

6.1.3 Section 5 and schedule 4, Part 8 – Release of prisoners

6.1.3.1. These provisions were utilised to conduct a limited release of prisoners in May 2020 as detailed in the Release of Prisoners (Coronavirus) (Scotland) Regulations 2020 (SSI 2020/138).

6.1.3.2. The Scottish Government will continue to engage with the Scottish Prison Service in relation to the potential future use of these powers, as one aspect of wider ongoing discussions of the impact of coronavirus on the prison system, and the safe management of the prison population.

6.1.3.3. Should it become necessary to implement an early release process in order to maintain security and good order, or the health, safety or welfare of prison staff and prisoners, the Scottish Government will work closely with justice partners, public and third sector services, and victims groups, in order to plan and deliver the necessary activities.

Second Scottish Act

6.2.1 Section 2 and schedule 1, Part 1 – Student residential tenancy: termination by tenant

6.2.1.1. The levels system of restrictions has been revoked and revised guidance published for universities, colleges and community learning and development providers. (<https://www.gov.scot/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-universities-colleges-and-community-learning-and-development-providers/>) The beyond level 0 Guidance reflects an understanding that the virus is unpredictable and significant risks remain and therefore, the provisions of the Act remain necessary.

6.2.1.2. The 28 day notice period has given students looking to find suitable accommodation in the current academic year reassurance that, should restrictions continue or more restrictive measures be re-introduced, either locally or nationally, that prevent students from taking up their accommodation as planned, they will not be held liable to pay for accommodation they are not able to use.

6.2.2 Section 2 and schedule 1, Part 2 – Tenancies: pre-action requirements for order for possession or eviction order on ground of rent arrears

6.2.2.1. The provisions provide Scottish Ministers with the power to specify pre-action requirements for private landlords seeking to end a private tenancy due to rent arrears, where those arrears relate to the period during which paragraph 4 of schedule 1 of the second Scottish Act is in force. The First-tier Tribunal for Scotland (Housing and Property Chamber) must take account of the extent to which a landlord has complied with the pre-action requirements when deciding whether it is reasonable to grant an order for repossession.

6.2.2.2. Schedule 1 of the first Scottish Act makes all grounds for repossession in the private rented sector discretionary, including for rent arrears. This temporarily changed the original position whereby the First-tier Tribunal for Scotland (Housing and Property Chamber) must grant a repossession order if the level of arrears is in accordance with the criteria laid out in the relevant legislation. This change ensures that the Tribunal considers the reasonableness of making a repossession order during the coronavirus outbreak.

6.2.2.3. The introduction of regulations under the provision temporarily set pre-action requirements that will apply where all or part of the rent arrears have originated in the period during which paragraph 4 of schedule 1 of the second Scottish Act is in force. The extent to which a landlord has complied with these requirements must be taken into account by the First-tier Tribunal for Scotland (Housing and Property Chamber) when deciding whether it is reasonable to grant a repossession order.

6.2.2.4. The introduction of regulations formalises the steps landlords should take in relation to working with private sector tenants to manage arrears prior to seeking repossession during the coronavirus pandemic.

6.2.2.5. The Scottish Government has assessed the potential impact of these provisions on human rights, children's rights and equalities and considers the introduction of pre-action requirements will have a positive impact across those with protected characteristics including women and disabled people who may have been impacted by the consequences of coronavirus. The Scottish Government also considers these measures support the right to adequate housing under the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights by ensuring appropriate safeguards are in place to prevent unnecessary eviction.

6.2.2.6. The provisions were in force during the reporting period. The Rent Arrears Pre-Action Requirements \(Coronavirus\) \(Scotland\) Regulations 2020 (SSI 2020/304) came into force on 30 September 2020.

6.2.3 Section 2 and schedule 1, Part 7 – Care Homes

6.2.3.1. Although these powers have been commenced and are available, they have not been used in this reporting period. Health Boards have not required to exercise their power of a direction over care homes using this legislation. Consequently, Health Boards have not had to use the corresponding power under section 63B of the Public Services Reform (Scotland) Act 2010 to act when said direction has not been complied with.

6.2.3.2. Scottish Ministers have not required to make an application to the courts for an Emergency Intervention Order in relation a care home under these powers. The Care Inspectorate updates Ministers of any care home providers with which they have serious concerns and provide regular updates to them to enable emergency action to be taken quickly if required.

6.2.3.3. No further regulations have been made under powers in section 65B during this tenth reporting period.

6.2.4 Section 3 and schedule 2, Part 1 – Criminal justice – Expiry of undertaking under section 25(2)(a) of the Criminal Justice (Scotland) Act 2016

6.2.4.1. This provision provides the court with the power to prevent the expiry of an undertaking and any conditions attached to it by changing the time the person is due to appear at court.

6.2.4.2. By preventing the expiry of undertakings in this way, the measure has allowed the Crown Office and Procurator Fiscal Service (COPFS) to review the previously extended undertaking timescales, so dates may revert back to within 28 days of liberation, and 14 days for domestic abuse cases.

6.2.4.3. Retaining this provision will ensure the court continues to have the power to prevent the expiry of an undertaking and any conditions attached to it. If a person fails to appear at court as required by the terms of their undertaking, the court considers that the failure to appear is attributable to a reason relating to coronavirus and it is not appropriate to grant a warrant for the person's arrest.

- 6.2.4.4. This enables the preservation of protective conditions of undertaking that may otherwise be lost where a person fails to attend court due to coronavirus and is a key measure to preserve public and victim safety during the coronavirus outbreak, particularly in sensitive cases of domestic abuse

UK Act

6.3.1 Section 10 and schedule 9 – Temporary modification of mental health legislation

- 6.3.1.1. Throughout the pandemic, we have engaged with key stakeholders through the Scottish Government's Short Life Mental Health Legislation Commencement Consideration Group to monitor and review the need to commence the temporary provisions on an ongoing basis. The group agreed that the data and evidence of impact on services and workforce is paramount when considering whether there is a need to commence the legislation. We know that there has been an increased level of demand on mental health services both in terms of support services for those with poor mental wellbeing, but also on psychiatric services from people with more severe mental ill health. Therefore, we feel that it remains necessary to retain these provisions at present to provide additional flexibility given the current climate.

6.3.2 Section 49 and schedule 19 – Health Protection Regulations: Scotland

- 6.3.1.2. Section 49 and schedule 19 commenced on Royal Assent and came into force on 25 March 2020. The powers give the Scottish Ministers power to make regulations for the purpose of preventing, protecting against, controlling or providing a public health response to the incidence or spread of infection or contamination with coronavirus in Scotland. These powers have been used to make regulations to provide for restrictions on movement and activities during the pandemic. While the full chronology of these regulations up to 30 September 2021 (SSI 2021/349²⁴) can be viewed in the ninth two-monthly report to Parliament²⁵, the regulations made using these powers in this tenth reporting period are as follows:

- 29 October 2021: The Health Protection \(Coronavirus\) \(Requirements\) \(Scotland\) Amendment \(No. 3\) Regulations 2021 \(SSI/384\) were made. These Regulations amend the Health Protection (Coronavirus) (Requirements) (Scotland) Regulations 2021 (the 'Requirements Regulations') to provide that persons who are a nominated representative of an organisation which has been accredited by the United Nations Framework on Climate Change for entrance to the COP 26 Blue Zone are deemed to be fully vaccinated for the purposes of entry to the COP 26 Green Zone. The amendments ceased to have effect on 13 November 2021.

Associated guidance on regulations made under schedule 19 has been regularly updated – see here for the current guidance on the Requirements Regulations - Coronavirus \(COVID-19\): guidance - gov.scot \(www.gov.scot\).

- 6.3.1.3. Regulations under schedule 19 must be reviewed at least every 21 days to ensure that the measures they impose continue to be necessary and proportionate. In between these formal reviews, the individual measures are kept under continuous review. Changes arising from any review are set out to the Scottish Parliament in plenary and considered by the Parliament's COVID-19 Committee.
- 6.3.1.4. Changes to regulations under schedule 19 are assessed through the Four Harms approach, which includes an assessment of current and projected data about the spread of the virus. Underpinning this is Scotland's Strategic Framework which describes our latest approach to managing the pandemic. It was last updated on 16 November 2021.
- 6.3.1.5. In addition, the Modelling the Epidemic series provides outputs from modelling of the spread and level of the epidemic by Scottish Government, as well as results by modelling groups feeding into the SAGE consensus. These help ensure a robust, peer-tested and up to date picture informs decisions.
- 6.3.1.6. Public Health Scotland (“PHS”) also publish a COVID-19 weekly statistical report. This presents key information on the rollout of the vaccine, volumes of tests and data on Covid transmissions, prevalence of the new variant and case numbers, plus links to a range of research resources and tools.
- 6.3.1.7. Four Harms: Throughout the pandemic, decisions about restrictions and requirements have been taken on the basis of public health and clinical advice, and an assessment against the four harms caused by the virus. These decisions require judgement to be applied to the facts and considerations relevant at the time they are made. Decisions take in clinical advice from the National Incident Management Team and Scottish Government clinical leads – around the Harm 1 direct health impacts from COVID. Directors of Public Health monitor data on a daily and weekly basis and SG officials update the suite of indicators weekly. The National Incident Management Team considers this information alongside local data and analysis in providing public health advice.
- 6.3.1.8. This is brought together with evidence and the assessment of impact on the other Harms caused by the virus – including the indirect health harms, the social harms and harms to the economy. Wider considerations are also taken into account such as the prevalence of infection elsewhere, or of the characteristics of new variants – which might suggest differential impacts.

6.3.1.9. Throughout the development of the regulations and guidance, the Scottish Government has always had regard to the need to protect human rights, equality considerations, the impact on business and the particular needs of island communities as part of the policy development process.

6.3.1.10. Measures imposed by regulations must be necessary and proportionate. Whilst statutory measures aim to deal with a significant threat to public health, impact assessments have been, and will continue to be, carried out as required on these measures. Any proposed changes will be assessed for their impact on equality and other areas as part of the policy development. This will be reported to the Scottish Parliament in appropriate impact assessments supporting any further amending regulations. All impact assessments can be found on www.legislation.gov.uk under the appropriate instrument.

7. Coronavirus-related Scottish Statutory Instruments

7.1 Section 14 of the second Scottish Act requires Scottish Ministers to report on all SSIs made by Scottish Ministers where the primary purposes relate to coronavirus. This does not apply to SSIs made by Scottish Ministers under the first or second Scottish Acts or the UK Act, as SSIs made under these Acts are already being reported on. Information on SSIs, to which section 14 of the second Scottish Act applies, is included in Table Five below.
